WARNER CHEERED AT BIG MEETING

Candidate Discusses Tariff in Garrett County.

William Tyler Page, Clerk of the Committee on Accounts of the House of Representatives, Also Presents Arguments to Voters-Inconsistency of Democrats Shown.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Oakland, Md., Nov. 5 .- The Republicans of Garrett County closed their campaign to-night, when Brainard H. Warner, jr., candidate for Congress in the Sixth district, addressed a large meeting. There was much enthusiasm, and he received a cordial greeting. His speech was largely on the tariff, and he analyzed the records of the Democratic party as represented in Congress to show how little the people might expect in the event of a change. In the course of his

'It is unprofitable longer to discuss the tariff academically, for it is not at the realm of theory and is intensely practical. The principle of protection is here to stay as a practical business and American institution. My opposing friends, with their visionary and theoretical ideas upon this, as well as other economical questions, would find, if given responsi-bility, that their well-meant purposes were the children of fancy and the par-ent of folly, wrought of such stuff as dreams are and as baseless as the fan-tastic visions of the evening; for within their own party they would discover lack of a definite and cohesive plan of revision—nothing but divergent and discordant views. They would find that the principles of protection cannot now be discarded, not alone because of Republican adherence to it, but through Demo-cratic demands for its maintenance. South Wants Protection.

"The States at the South, from whence the preponderance of Democrats would hail, have a potent voice in the making of a tariff law, and judging from their demands and the demands of business and commercial bodies in the Southern States, for what they were pleased to call their just measure of protection when the last tariff bill was being formulated, every State south of Maryland, through their Congressional representatives insisted upon the preservation of the protective principle for their own products.

For instance, Florida demanded and will demand again, protection for sea-island cotton, wrapper tobacco, citrus fruits, and lumber; Georgia, for lumber and kaolin; Kentucky, for hemp; Louisiana, for rice, sugar, and lumber; North Carolina, for towels, yarns, mica, and lumber; South Carolina, for clays; Tennessee, for lumber, barytas, and tanning extracts; Texas, for wool, cotton, rice, and hides, and Vhrginia, for peanuts, tobacco, briar root, pig iron, iron ore, gypsum; barytas, lumber, coal, and other declaration for free lumber was utterly disregarded when the lumber interests of the South were faced with a practical proposition, and it was by Southern Democratic votes, including that of our own g Senator, John Walter Smith, that lumber was kept off the free list; and even in 2 the matter of as unimportant an item § as quebracko, except to Virginia, the duty was increased at the demand of Virginia Senators, aided by other Democrats. Likewise, in the matter of pineapples, the Florida Senators were zealous in their tender solicitude for that local product. As one Florida Congressman expressed namely, Representative Clarke, "I am for tariff for revenue with protection proclivities for Florida products.

"The entire Virginia delegation de-manded an increase of 300 per cent on peanuts. Senator Bailey, of Texas, was oposed to free raw material. Senator McEnery, of Louisiana, voted throughout with the Republicans for protection because what he thought was good enough for Louisiana was good enough for the
